“ Jenny was my mentor and friend who taught me so much in my banking career. May her family find peace in knowing that she is happy and whole again with Jesus.

“ I am a protege of Jenny. What I mean by that is... she was my manager back in the day. California First Bank. I was 18 when I got the job 😊 She and I was far apart in the ranking. I was a teller and she was the manager. One thing is for sure... she knew how to manage. Our meetings were all about... “It takes more muscles to frown than it does to smile” 😊 I will always remember that about her. I’ve carried it with me to this day ❤️❤️❤️

I met Jenny in the beginning, at Bank of Tokyo. She was pretty and sweet and I’d sit inside her glass office and talk and laugh! I’m sorry she’s left this earth but so happy she’s finally reunited with her husband and family.
